CIRCLEVILLE QUILTS CENTRAL BUCKEYE LEAGUE

BID TO RE-JOIN SOUTH CENTRAL LOOP DECLINED

Principal Reger Informs Secretary Blauser of School's Decision

NEW CONTESTS SOUGHT

Some of Scheduled Games May Be Played Next Fall

Circleville high school, Friday, officially withdrew from the Central Buckeye Athletic league. A decision was reached Thursday afternoon in a conference between Superintendent Frank Fischer and Principal E. E. Reger.

Mr. Reger contacted Dwight Blauser, of Grandview, secretary of the league, Friday, to inform him of the school's decision.

Circleville is the second to withdraw in the last two weeks, Marysville having announced a similar decision.

Offer Turned Down

The local school at the same time decided to decline an invitation to become affiliated with the new South Central Ohio league. Supt. Fischer intends to write F. R. Harris, of Greenfield, to inform him of the school's decision.

Greenfield, Wilmington, Hillsboro and Washington C. H. already belong to the league.

London has been asked, too, to take a berth, but Principal Reger was informed in a visit to London Friday that that school does not plan to affiliate with any athletic organization.

Question Discussed

The decision to withdraw came after considerable investigation and discussion among school authorities. Withdrawal from the Central Buckeye has been agreed on, unofficially, for quite a while, but the next question was whether to join another loop. It was agreed that to quit the Central Buckeye to join the South Central would be "jumping from the frying pan into the fire."

Circleville has been a member of the league since it was started. The school has held only one major championship, that in basketball in 1932.

LUISE RAINER AND PAUL MUNI VOTED BEST ACTORS OF 1936

Luise Rainer
The Great Ziegfeld

"The Great Ziegfeld" Rated Outstanding Movie; "Life of Louis Pasteur" Best Original Screen Play

HOLLYWOOD, March 5—(UP)—Hollywood rates "The Great Ziegfeld" as its best work of 1936, and Luise Rainer and Paul Muni as its outstanding performers.

The selections of the 800 members of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences were announced last night at the annual dinner, a major event in the film colony's social life.

Miss Rainer won the gold statuette for her work in "The Great Ziegfeld," and Muni for his performance in "The Story of Louis Pasteur." The latter story won a double honor for the authors, Sheridan Gibney and Pierre Colings, who were acclaimed for the best original and screen play of the year.

Both Austrian Natives

Both Miss Rainer and Muni are from Austria. It was Miss Rainer's second movie.

Frank Capra's direction of "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town," was rated the best of 1936. Capra won the honor in 1934 for directing "It Happened One Night."

The outstanding jobs in supporting roles were credited to Walter Brennan in "Come and Get It," and Gale Sondergaard in "Anthony Adverse."

"The Way You Look Tonight," by Jerome Kern and Dorothy Fields, was picked as the best song. Other awards included Best cartoon—Walt Disney's "The Country Cousin."

2-reel short subject—Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "The Public Pays."

1-reel short—Hal Roach's "The Bored Education."

Color short—Warner Brothers' "Give Me Liberty."

PEGGY IS FREED AS JUDGE CUTS BOND TO $1,000

NEW YORK, March 5—(UP)—The law was kind to blonde Peggy Garcia today. She was freed from the women's house of detention after she had posted $1,000 bail to assure her appearance at a trial on bigamy charges resulting from her recently dismissed $500,000 breach of promise suit against the violinist, David Rubinoff.

Supreme Court Justice Salvatore A. Cotto, who heard the heart balm suit, reduced her bail from $10,000 to $1,000 after Miss Garcia, a former night club hostess, had failed to raise the larger figure.

The judge announced that he had been advised by District Attorney William C. Dodge that no extortion was involved in the Rubinoff suit.

DOWNS REPLACES D. W. MACKLIN ON BOARD OF R. E. A.

Election of Dewey Downs, Darby township, as a director of the South Central Rural Electric Cooperative Association to succeed D. W. Macklin of near Tilton, was announced Friday by Marvin Steeley, Washington township.

Mr. Macklin asked to be relieved of the position, Mr. Steeley said, and Mr. Downs appointment was made at a meeting held in Lancaster.

The electrification project embraces Pickaway, Fairfield and Perry counties with three directors named from each county. The term of one director from each county expires each year.

The other directors from Pickaway county on the board are Mr. Steeley and R. D. Head, Pickaway township.

FRANK MARION, GEORGE HAMMEL SEEK J. P. POST

Two local Democrats tossed their hats in the ring Friday for the justice of peace job in Circleville township.

Announcements were made by Frank A. Marion, 217 N. Scioto street, and George E. Hammel, 650 N. Court street, insurance agent and former local deputy registrar of motor vehicles.

The office is held now by Harold O. Eveland, N. Court street.

SIX MEN TAKEN TO OHIO JAILS TO SERVE TIME

Six men recently sentenced in common pleas court under indictments returned by the grand jury were taken to state institutions Friday.

Deputy Sheriff Miller Fissell took Ed Johnson, 44, of Clarksburg, to the Ohio penitentiary to begin a sentence of one to 15 years for burglary and larceny.

Those taken to the Ohio reformatory at Mansfield by Sheriff Charles Radcliff and Deputy Earl Weaver were William Brown, 19, city; Vasper Daniels, 19, of Clarksburg, Route 1; Donald Draize, 18, of Williamsport, Route 2; Virgil Dixon, 19, Lancaster pike, all sentenced to one to 15 years for burglary and larceny, and Thomas Irvin, 26, Lovers Lane, sentenced to one to 20 years for forgery.

U. S. TO REMOVE ITS DIPLOMATS FROM ETHIOPIA

WASHINGTON, March 5—(UP)—The American government will close the American legation at Addis Ababa and terminate American diplomatic representation in Ethiopia on March 31, the state department announced today.

Department officials said this action did not constitute recognition, de facto or otherwise, of Italy's conquest of Ethiopia.

The action is being taken for economic reasons, the department said, because American business interests in Ethiopia no longer warrant the maintenance of diplomatic and consular representation there.

The department announced that Cornelius Van H. Engert, American minister resident and consul general at Addis Ababa is leaving his post today.

DUFFY'S RULING

COLUMBUS, March 5—(UP)—County auditors cannot retain the $1.25 statutory fee collected for the execution of deeds of land sold at a foreclosure sale but must pay the money into the county treasury, Attorney General Herbert S. Duffy said in an opinion to the Pike County prosecuting attorney today.

FARMERS SEEK BOOST IN CORN QUOTA FOR 1937

Committeemen, Compliance Agent Confer With Regional Official Friday

86,638 LIMITATION SET

6,000 More Needed for Sweet Crop, Blair Contends

Paul Matthes, compliance agent, Marvin Steeley and Wilbur Brinker, members of the county soil conservation committee, went to Columbus Friday to confer with regional and district officials of the program urging an adjustment be made on the corn base for this county.

Their contention is the base of 86,638 acres of corn in 1937, under the Agricultural Conservation program, is too low. The figure is nearly 6,000 acres below the amount planted in 1936 when 92,000 acres were used.

6,000 for Sweet Corn

F. K. Blair, county agent, estimated 86,000 acres represents the normal amount of Indian corn planted in the county not including sweet corn. He estimated sweet corn acreage would average about 6,000 acres annually.

Complaints were made to the local committee by township committeemen who would be assigned their proper proportions by the county group.

Mr. Blair contended an acreage ranging from 80,000 to 85,000 should be the normal amount established from Indian corn and an increase should be granted to take care of sweet corn since corn is one of the leading crops of the county.

The local men made a trip to Columbus Thursday to discuss the acreage problem with district officials, and returned Friday to meet with a regional official.

JANITOR HERO AS DOG BITES FIVE CHILDREN

COLUMBUS, March 5—(UP)—Homer Aleshire went about his duties as custodian of the Worthington elementary school today, a hero in the eyes of the children and teachers alike because he tackled a mad dog after had bitten five children.

Aleshire was bitten on the left thumb and right wrist and hand. The dog earlier in the morning had bitten its owners.

All eight persons have been given treatment against rabies.

A P.T.A. meeting in the school was thrown into a panic when the dog dashed into the room and snapped at everyone within reach.

The children dashed wildly about the room while adults sought to protect them from the vicious animal.

But before Patricia McCall, Robert Wright, Norma Thompson, Clyde King and Irma Herpin could flee the dog had nipped them on the legs.

By this time, Aleshire, called to help, arrived and made a lunge for the dog. As he grappled it the animal fought viciously, biting him before he could obtain a hold on his throat.

The dog was killed today at the dog pound. Examination showed that the animal had rabies, according to veterinarians.

CHARLES C. MATTOX DIES AT SON'S HOME, ADELPHI

Charles C. Mattox, 73, died Friday at 3 a. m. at the home of his son, Frank, in Adelphi. A cerebral hemorrhage caused death.

Mr. Mattox is survived by another son and three daughters.

The funeral will be Sunday at 2 p. m. in the Adelphi M. E. church the Rev. L. C. McCandlish officiating. Burial will be in Green Summit cemetery by H. E. Deffenbaugh and Son.

Voice of Nazis Assails Mayor of New York

BERLIN, March 5—(UP)—The newspaper Der Angriff, owned by Reich Propaganda Minister Dr. Paul Josef Goebbels, charged today that the U. S. State Department's "lame handling" of an anti-Hitler speech by Mayor Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York was inciting the mayor to new insults.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull in Washington yesterday had expressed informally his regret over the incident.

The American embassy meanwhile forwarded to the state department a complete report of German newspaper comments on Mayor LaGuardia's suggestion that Chancellor Adolf Hitler be made the chief exhibit of a "chamber of horrors" at the New York World's Fair in 1939. It was understood that the embassy had made no official contact with the German government on the incident.

Der Angriff's attack was inspired by La Guardia's reply to the first outburst of Nazi indignation to the "chamber of horrors" suggestion.

The New York mayor said the German government "ought to protest" because no exhibit that could be installed at the World Fair would "adequately depict either the personalities of the Nazi government, Hitler himself or the type of government he is giving."

"This latest declaration by New York's chief gangsters tops everything," Der Angriff said. "Lame handling of the case by the Washington foreign department, which is inciting La Guardia to even new insults, is characterizing in verily American dimensions this state where 12,000,000 people have as their only freedom the freedom to perish by the roadside without a word."

Approximately 3,000 automotive employees returned to work today with settlement of two sit-down strikes while the United Automobile Workers of America pressed demands for recognition upon two major auto producers.

An eight day strike in the Thompson Products, Inc., ended at 4 a. m. when the management and union signed a collective bargaining agreement that returned 1,000 employees to work.

Sit-down in three plants of the Peninsular Metal Products Corp. was terminated in agreement earlier, less than 24 hours after 2,000 men and women stopped work because of the sit-down. In both strikes the union claimed to have achieved sole collective bargaining rights.

SPEECH SCORES HIGH TRIBUNAL FOR DECISIONS

Opposition to Reform Program Prepares to Attack Talk Within Few Days

VICTORY DINNERS HELD

Thousands in Audiences Hear Roosevelt's Address

WASHINGTON, March 5—(UP)—President Roosevelt thrust his judiciary reorganization program toward a bitter congressional battle today.

Confronted by a senate almost evenly divided on his plan to enlarge the Supreme Court, the president uncompromisingly carried his campaign to the nation in a radio address to 515,000 guests at Democratic victory dinners throughout the country.

He attacked the Supreme Court and the judiciary directly—and he promised to do so again in his fireside chat to the nation scheduled for March 9 and as many times thereafter as he felt necessary to achieve his purpose of making democracy work.

"You know who assumed the power to veto and did veto," the first New Deal farm and labor legislative programs, he said to his audience last night.

"Must Act—Now"

"If we do not have the courage to lead the American people where they want to go, someone else will—if we would keep faith—if we would make democracy succeed, I say we must act—now."

Mr. Roosevelt flatly rejected compromise or long delay in the judiciary reorganization program which he said was essential to ensure enactment of social and economic legislation. He made it plain that he was in the fight to the end and that he would fight hard.

He also made plain that he would not be a candidate for a third term in 1940.

But almost while he spoke, foes of his program conferred on plans to answer him immediately. They will say that he failed to meet the charge that he seeks to "pack" the Supreme Court. They also made plans to hold firm the opposition lines in the senate which they claim will block the administration program.

At an informal conference of five leading opposition senators, both Democratic and Republican, plans to counter-attack were discussed. The tentative preparations include:

1 A probable reply to the president's speech in the senate on Monday by one of the more prominent leaders of the opposition.

2 A decision to summon opposition witnesses of national reputation and liberal tendencies—including former supporters of the president—to the senate judiciary hearing on the court bill starting next week. Democrats probably will do most of the opposition questioning in order to keep the fight "non-partisan."

Among possible witnesses mentioned was Norman Thomas, socialist leader. Several noted women also will be asked to testify.

May Make Misdemeanor

3 A proposal to strike at the administration campaign for support of the president's plan by introducing in the senate a resolution which would make it a misdemeanor for any official or employee of the executive branch except the president to speak or write articles in an effort to influence the president's action.

Displays, Cleanliness and Advertising Stressed

Opening of a membership drive to add approximately 40 new members to the Retail Merchants' association during the next two weeks was announced Monday night by Nathan Groban, president of the organization, at a joint meeting of merchants and the Chamber of Commerce.

All present members of the organization will participate in the drive. A list of merchants eligible for membership will be prepared and the names divided among members to conduct the campaign.

Forty-five persons attended the joint meeting of the organization in Hanley's tearoom. "Merchandising and Advertising" was the topic of an address given by Miss Amy McComber, of Minneapolis, representative of General Mills Co., Inc. She stressed the importance of attractive window and store displays, cleanliness in stores and the value of advertising. Clever figures made from bread were designed by Mrs. McComber. They are on display in the window of Wallace's bakery.

Frank Noyes, secretary of the Ohio Bakers' association, presented pictures of the recent flood in the Ohio valley.

SALLY'S SALLIES

LUTHERAN MEN GATHER, ENJOY HOBBY PROGRAM

Fifty enthusiastic members of the Lutheran Brotherhood gathered Thursday night at the Lutheran Parish House for the conclusion of the program carried over from the last meeting.

After a brief business meeting which was opened by religious meditation and scripture reading by Rev. G. L. Troutman, the refreshments committee served a plate consisting of chicken salad sandwiches, cheese sandwiches, pickles, and coffee.

The personnel of the program was a resumption of the interesting discussions of "Hobbies".

C. A. Leist gave a bit of advice on the sport of kings, horse racing, which simmered down to the acknowledgment that you can't beat the races, but that nevertheless if you care to, you can have a lot of fun, and indulgence in such sport offers a chance to test out your vocal powers.

George C. Griffith satisfied everyone with his humorous interpretations via paper and crayon, his always interesting drawings getting a nice round of applause. Charles Weidinger read briefly on his hobby subject of model building, and showed a few completed models, and the elementary equipment needed to pursue such a hobby.

Dudley Carpenter, with his subject as "Fillin' In", told the story of many, many guinea pigs, and the trouble the railway station agent had finding room for and getting rid of their many offspring. The meeting was in a gay mood at the conclusion of the offering, as according to the story two things led to four thousand in a very short time, and brought up many hearty laughs with its rib-tickling situations.

Announcing the Wives and Sweethearts Banquet for April 1st at which time Cyril H. Palm will be the master of ceremonies, the meeting was adjourned.

COUNTY SCHOOL MEN TO DISCUSS MANY PROBLEMS

County superintendents have a variety of matters for discussion at their regular monthly meeting to be held Saturday at 9:15 a. m. in the county school offices.

A report on the county basketball tournament will be submitted by Dr. A. D. Blackburn, New Holland. Plans will be discussed for the state test for seniors to be held in Circleville high school, April 3. The program for the county teachers meeting to be held March 20 at Pickaway township will be considered. A final report will be submitted by the committee studying the uniformity of high school text books, and the committee studying improvements on report cards. The county oratorical contest scheduled for April 23 will be discussed and diplomas will be considered.

MAN AND WOMAN FINED, CALDWELL IS BOUND OVER

H. L. Reiley, 43, of Mt. Sterling, Route 3, paid a fine of $10 and costs in police court Thursday afternoon on an intoxication charge. He forfeited a $5 bond previously posted in police court for the same offense.

Woodrow Caldwell, Route 23, was bound to the grand jury under $1,000 bond on a charge of participating in the theft of $5 from Shelby & McCrady's restaurant, Feb. 6. He denied the charge. Caldwell was unable to furnish bond.

Beulah W. Sparks, 30, of E. Mill street, was arrested by police Thursday afternoon and charged with shoplifting, officers reported. She was fined $25 and costs and committed to the county jail. Police said the woman had a variety of small items taken from two up-town stores.

McLaglen Others
Victor McLaglen, June Lang and Peter Lorre take the spotlight at Hollywood Hotel, in a presentation of scenes from "Nancy Steele Is Missing." It is heard at 9 p. m. The film, in which the trio is co-starred, was released February 26.

A story of prison life, "Nancy Steele Is Missing" deals with the kidnapping of a little girl by McLaglen, who places her with his parents. He is imprisoned, but upon his release is given work by the girl's father, and it is around this startling coincidence, plus the fact that McLaglen has confessed the crime to a prison pal, that the girl, now grown, and her father are at last reunited.

Backing up the prison angles of the show will be the guest appearance of Warden Lewis E. Lawes, famed for the book and radio program, "20,000 Years in Sing Sing."

MORRIS INTERVIEWER
Chester Morris—and his wife and children—will be the subjects of an "at home" interview by NBC's Eliza Schallert tonight at 10:45.

Not only Morris himself, Miss Schallert promises, but all the members of his family as well, will be put on the air.

CARY GRANT ON AIR

Cary Grant, who was featured with Grace Moore in her last picture, will be her leading man in the Radio Theatre on Monday, March 8, when she stars in "Madame Butterfly."

The two stars of "When You're in Love" on the screen will be reunited for the first time in Radio Theatre in the broadcast over the Columbia network at 9 p. m. Cecil B. DeMille is the producer.

Not the first appearance in Radio Theatre is it for either Miss Moore or Mr. Grant. The famous singer was heard in "Trilby" just a few months ago and Grant had a leading role even before the broadcast moved to Hollywood a year ago.

COUNTY SCOUTS RECEIVE NEWS FROM COUNCIL

Boy Scouts of Circleville and Pickaway county this week are receiving the initial issue of "Scouting in Central Ohio," a monthly magazine of interest to Scouts, published by the Central Ohio Area Council. Over 5,000 boys and men of central Ohio will receive the publication.

The purpose of the new paper is to make scouting more fun, and keep troops informed about activities in other troops throughout the council, which embraces eight counties, including Pickaway.

John W. Bricker, new president of the Central Ohio Area Council, is honored on the first page, which contains his picture and short biographical sketch. Other feature pages making up attractive 14-page magazine concerns nature, health and safety, merit badge tips, Cub Scouts, hiking and news items.

Robert H. Holstead, scout executive, is editor. Contributors to the first issue include Fire Chief E. P. Welch, of Columbus, and Arthur R. Harper, prominent naturalist, and many others.

"Scouting in Central Ohio" will supplement national publications of the Scout movement.

FELT LIKE KNIFE STICKING IN HIP

Suffered Awful Pains in Back, Legs, Arms, and Shoulders. Says Vendol Gave Marvelous Relief.

"I went about doing my work many a day with a pain in my hip that felt like a knife sticking in it, so the relief I got from Vendol is truly wonderful," says Mr. John S. Shackels of 683 Handford St., Columbus, Ohio.

MR. JOHN S. SHACKELS

"The pains ran through my back, legs, arms, and shoulders, and it seemed every move I made sent pains all through my body. I often awakened during the night and would rub my joints so I could get back to sleep.

"I tried different medicines then started on Vendol, and this medicine relieved my constipation then the pains disappeared and now I'm feeling better than in many a day. I wouldn't take anything for the relief Vendol gave after suffering so much."

Vendol is made from good old-fashioned roots and herbs mixed with valuable alkalines. It is pleasant to take, acts quickly and is not expensive.

Vendol gives double action relief. Alkalizes stomach and blood while promoting normal bowel action, due to wonderful new formula of mild ALKALINES WITH

12 ROOTS & HERBS

Vendol is sold by all leading druggists everywhere and is highly recommended here by Hamilton & Ryan, Druggists.

OHIO'S INTEREST IN OUTDOOR LIFE AT HIGH FIGURE

Director of Research Bureau

CONDITIONS STUDIED

Wallace Sees Need for Many Refuges, Sanctuaries

COLUMBUS, March 5—Ohio's interest in the conservation of wild life amounts to $50,000,000 annually, according to Lawrence E. Hicks, director of the cooperative wildlife research station, Ohio State University, who reported his studies in Ohio to a national assembly of conservationists at St. Louis, Missouri, March 1 to 4. Mr. Hicks does not believe that business of such magnitude as conservation should be conducted by hit and miss methods but he admits that the science of preserving and increasing wildlife is based on very little study as compared with the work that has gone into the fostering of other industries. The wildlife research station at the university has been in operation only a little more than a year.

In Eight Other States

Eight other states have similar stations but they are studying different problems. Mr. Hicks and his assistants are trying to find ways to improve conditions for fox and gray squirrels and for raccoons. Other states work with game and other animals, so a great deal of information about most species will be available soon.

Wood county, Ohio, has several organized groups which have placed hunting on a business basis and records of their work are available. Members of one game protective association sold hunting permits to 300 non-resident hunters in the 10-day 1936 season. These men spent an average of $7.70 while they were in the county, a total of $2,310 or more than $200 a day for the privilege of hunting 17,500 acres of farm land.

Secretary of Agriculture Henry A. Wallace said at the St. Louis meeting, "The need to establish federal waterfowl refuges and HEROISM of two boys, Peachie, 14, and Denver, 16, Arbogast, who walked six miles through a mountain blizzard although ill with the flu, saved the life of their mother and new-born baby, confined in their snowbound cabin atop Allegheny mountain near Elkins, W. Va., Mrs. Arbogast, her husband and seven other children were ill with the flu when the two boys battled their way through the blizzard to a neighbor's house where they telephoned a doctor. The physician, aided by CCC boys from Camp Thornwood, broke trail to the Arbogast cabin and administered aid. All members of the Arbogast family are recovering.

sanctuaries and to reclaim marsh and water areas for the preservation of aquatic life was first announced by Doctor Nelson of the Biological Survey nearly 20 years ago, but it was not until 1929 that the migratory bird conservation act was adopted and it was not until 1934 that adequate funds were furnished to carry out this vital work.

Action Too Delayed

"There have been so many instances of this sort connected with our attempts to save the renewable resources, that it may be regarded almost as a rule that the important actions to benefit these resources have always been taken 10, 20, or 30 years after the need for them was first realized, and therefore too late to be wholly effective.

"Delays resulting from lack of organization have cost us much. If major reforms concerning the use of land, water, forests, and wildlife had been adopted 50 or 100 years earlier than they were, there would have been little cause for our present anxiety concerning the grave problems of soil erosion and the uses of submarginal land; our streams and lakes would be free of pollution; and we would still have vast wilderness areas in reserve and an abundance of all the original forms of wildlife."

Remember the first automobile in and about Ashville? Frank Hott, E. E. Smith, Doctor Gardner and Postle were the first ones in these parts to own machines. They were "one lungers" and traveled, when speeding, anywhere from 10 to 15 miles per hour. Henry Hulse, we recall, had a high wheeler with a chain drive. This machine was of his own manufacture and we feel certain it was the very first to get over the roads in this county. And what a time there was with the horses.

Bunker Hill Skeleton
Bob Walden, Ashville's marshal-street commissioner in leading gravel at the Bunker Hill pit Tuesday, ran onto a fairly well preserved skeleton of a human. How it came to be there no one now living here, knows. Buried in the gravel, as it was the body may have been buried there years and years, a hundred or more. One can only conjecture and any guess is as good as the other. Some of you, no doubt, will recall the mastodon bones recovered a few years ago from Mud Run. They were monstrous in size, at least as large as the bones of the largest elephant any of us have seen. Our recollection is that they were taken to the O. S. U. museum. Our Frank Welsh, near 90, and a South Bloomfielder may be able to tell us something about the skeleton found at Bunker Hill.

Tag Sale Increases
The auto tag boys disposed of 15 tags yesterday, Thursday, as many as the three previous days. It will not be long now until the rush will be on in earnest. The village council house is the sales location.

Picture Show Possibility
It is considerably more than a mere guess that Ashville will have a picture show of some sort, if talk means anything. Equipment salesmen are "looking us over" with the hope that they may convince some of our business people that a picture show is a real need in Ashville, and that some one of these salesmen may supply this need.

New Light Installed
Thursday, T. A. Boor and working force put in place at the intersection of Main and Long streets, one of his traffic lights. We know nothing of the construction of this light or the cost of operating it, but for real service to the driving public, it has them all beat.

Many At Services
The Christian Union church services Thursday evening were well attended. The work of this church is supplying a real need, believe it or not.

BURRIS ESTATE
Josephine Burris is the chief beneficiary under the will of her husband, Wesley Burris, of New Holland, probated Wednesday. A brother, William, is bequeathed $100 and a son, Dwight, $1. The remainder of the personal property and real estate is left to the widow. Letters testamentary were issued to John T. Dick.

NOBODY ENJOYS TAKING MEDICINE!

Yet most people at some time suffer from common constipation. Why not correct this condition the natural way—by including a ready-to-eat cereal with your daily meals instead of taking weakening pills and drugs?

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN adds the "bulk" the average system needs. In the body, ALL-BRAN absorbs twice its weight in water, forming a soft, spongelike mass—which gently cleanses the intestines.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also furnishes vitamin B to tone up the intestines and iron for the blood.

Just eat two tablespoonsful a day, as a cereal with milk or cream, or cooked into appetizing muffins, breads, etc. Three times daily in severe cases.

ALL-BRAN is sold at all grocers. Made and guaranteed by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Tom Sherman and family removed Thursday from the Borror farm on the Jackson pike, to the 280 acre John Stimmel farm at Miner. This Tom Sherman is the son of our Mr. and Mrs. Charles Sherman and his wife is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan Runkle.

Tag Sale Increases

The auto tag boys disposed of 15 tags yesterday, Thursday, as many as the three previous days. It will not be long now until the rush will be on in earnest. The village council house is the sales location.

Picture Show Possibility

It is considerably more than a mere guess that Ashville will have a picture show of some sort, if talk means anything. Equipment salesmen are "looking us over" with the hope that they may convince some of our business people that a picture show is a real need in Ashville, and that some one of these salesmen may supply this need.

New Light Installed

Thursday, T. A. Boor and working force put in place at the intersection of Main and Long streets, one of his traffic lights. We know nothing of the construction of this light or the cost of operating it, but for real service to the driving public, it has them all beat.

Many At Services

The Christian Union church services Thursday evening were well attended. The work of this church is supplying a real need, believe it or not.

BURRIS ESTATE

Josephine Burris is the chief beneficiary under the will of her husband, Wesley Burris, of New Holland, probated Wednesday. A brother, William, is bequeathed $100 and a son, Dwight, $1. The remainder of the personal property and real estate is left to the widow. Letters testamentary were issued to John T. Dick.

"Banzai," Hole In One

SALINAS, Cal., (UP)—The Japanese language has provided just the right word to express the proper feeling when a golfer makes a hole in one. John Urabe, star Japanese golfer, tried it out when he holed a 225-yard drive here and it was all that was necessary. It is simply "Banzai."

EDUCATORS: The move, reported recently, which may lead to construction of a new gymnasium for use of schools for basketball and various other functions, is worthy of consideration. The Circleville Chamber of Commerce, sensing the value of such a project, is devoting its entire meeting next Monday at noon to discussion of a gymnasium and ways and means for providing one. G. D. McDowell, superintendent of county schools, is expected to attend the session to explain what the county expects and hopes to have. The meeting promises to be of much interest. The Athletic Club gymnasium, while splendid for cage games, has become too small for the crowds wishing to witness the annual tournament. It is necessary that something be done prior to next basketball season. Some persons have suggested the tournament be divided with part of the games being played at one township school and the other portion at another school, but any move in this direction is certain to encounter opposition from schools, athletes and fans alike. The only solution is a gymnasium with seating sufficient to handle the enormous crowds that would like to see the games. A gymnasium, located either in Circleville or in the near vicinity, would answer the question. How to get it? how to finance it? and several other questions must be answered. Congratulations should go to the Pickaway county officials in charge of the recent tournament for the splendid manner in which the competition was conducted.

GENTLEMEN: I wonder how many persons must be injured, and their cars torn up at dangerous street intersections, before you gentlemen wake up to some of the conditions in Circleville and do something to correct them. This week a wreck occurred at Pickaway and Watt streets. There have been accidents there before, and you may expect some more unless you install a traffic light or take some other step. You know also the intersection at Franklin and Pickaway streets is equally as dangerous. Lights would not only protect motorists, but would prevent speeding on some of the streets. This issue is equally

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

Back in the 1870's there was published monthly in the United States a now-long-since-defunct magazine called the Galaxy.

We were suffering then from a bad depression, the period following the crash of '73, as we have been of late. The Galaxy therefore devoted considerable space to discussion of economic problems. It was highly intellectual in tone, had first-class experts on its staff and evidently weighed the questions of its day in an intelligent fashion for that era.

Finally, editorially summing up (I quote from an ancient bound copy of the magazine), it drew this conclusion: "Our difficulty of course, is obvious."

"We are the victims of our own mechanization of industry."

"Mechanization has made such progress and produces so fast that we no longer have employment enough to go around."

MACHINES: IN 1873:

This, remember, was at a time when, expressing ourselves in terms of the 1930's, we would say that nearly everything was done by hand.

A pewee steam engine, known as the Corlies, was exhibited, as a perfect monster, at the Philadelphia centennial exposition, in 1876. We had the telegraph but not the telephone. Primitive electric lights were a curiosity. The scythe and the flail by no means had been supplanted on our farms.

Yet that Galaxy editorial pointed out that we had been mechanized into a depression.

The editorial from which I have quoted could be lifted from the dead-and-gone Galaxy of the 1870's, printed in any newspaper of tomorrow morning, and no one would suspect that it had been written the night before relative to conditions of the present.

ARE WE, TOO, WRONG?

Clearly the Galaxy of the 1870's was cock-eyed.

Some commentator of 1937 or 2000 may refer to 1937's economists as being as cuckoo as the Galaxy's were in the 1870's. Something was and is wrong, to cause depressions. Mechanization as important, if not more so, than some of the other measures you have been considering in council. Protection of the lives of residents and their property should be considered ahead of sewers on some streets that have no water lines and may not have them for some time. I suggest you purchase some lights for some of the dangerous intersections in this city as soon as possible.

CIRCUITEER

TO MAYOR GRAHAM

DEAR SIR: You have been very fair in dealing with persons who have violated the two-hour parking regulation in the downtown district. I believe about all motorists in the county have received their education on the regulation. You should start using the teeth provided by the ordinance. In recent weeks I have noticed many violations, both on overtime parking and double parking. Some residents are beginning to consider the ordinance a joke. A few fines will mean better observance of the regulation.

CIRCUITEER

TO RESIDENTS

FRIENDS: The season to plan your flower and vegetable gardens is at hand. Nothing adds more to the beauty of a city than pretty flowers and shrubbery, attractively planted and well kept. Circleville can boast of many fine trees, adding an unusual touch of beauty. Most residents are to be congratulated for the keen interest they take in the appearance of their yards. Some need a little reminding. Start making your plans early and help dress up Circleville so it will continue to hold the title of being one of the most attractive cities of central Ohio. Orchids to the Garden Club for its progressive program.

DR. H. R. CLARKE

WEATHERMAN: Just forget the lamb-lion proposition and continue to do the type of work you turned out during the last week. Residents seem satisfied with the springlike temperature, so Old Man Winter can leave anytime. The weather has been ideal for farmers, who are on the move at the present time. Many housewives have started their annual cleaning.

CIRCUITEER

TO MOTORISTS

DRIVERS: The 1937 auto license plates are now on sale at the McLaughlin shop, S. Scioto street. It is certain if you drive your car during 1937 you will need new plates, so why delay purchasing your tags until the last minute. Buy them as early as possible. This prevents a last minute rush, saves you time and does not work such a hardship on the employees of the deputy registrar's office. Remember, do not put the new tags on your car before March 10. They must be used by April 1.

CIRCUITEER

TO CITY OFFICIALS

GENTLEMEN: The proposition suggested in council Wednesday night that Circleville's streets be repaired under a major WPA project should meet the approval of all residents. It would provide employment to many men on relief rolls. At the present time many of the city's streets are in terrible condition due to severe improvements. Some should be repaired as soon as possible. I realize it is necessary that the earth be given sufficient time to settle, but surely some have settled enough to start permanent improvements. Residents are continually complaining about the condition of streets, and they expect some action.

CHAPTER 38

RUSSELL BEDE sat at Janet's feet on a deck pillow. His face was turned from her and in the few minutes that followed his asking her to marry him, Janet saw in the firm set of his features, lighted by the moonlight, an expression of steady waiting that she had never seen on his face before.

She saw the man that he was, the man whose willpower, whose brain, whose foresight and determination had made a fortune out of a slipping business, the man who was accustomed to getting what he wanted and giving full value in return.

Oh, yes, he would give full value in return. But he had come too late.

"Russell," she said softly. "I am not only married but I am married happily." Still she didn't say that she loved Joel; she thought that he would have known it.

"Some day you will marry me," he said only. "Janet, I am no boy to speak impulsively. Nor am I a young girl who would misunderstand. I knew the first night I met you that you were the girl I wanted to marry. In these few weeks I have learned much about you—and your husband."

Janet was going to protest that he could not have known anything about Joel but she kept silent.

"You give and he takes."

"I like giving," she said simply.

"And he likes taking and that is wrong, my girl. The time will come as it inevitably does in such a design for living as these people out here practice, when that unbalanced weight will topple. Like and like are the only ones who find and use the qualities that survive."

"But Joel and I are alike," she said and thought she said it aloud but it was only a question, not a statement, in her mind.

"You were a couple of kids who fell in love. Kids who turned out to be mercerically opposite. I am not being impertinent, Janet, in saying this. It's important to me. I know you as well as though I'd known you a lifetime. I know the extent of your courage, your loyalty and your love. And I dare to criticize you. I dare to tell you that you cannot make a success of the thing you have so nobly begun, that you are building a castle on sand. Hollywood marriages do not last. You have the world at your feet, the world that will give more than you can take. That world gives things which your husband wants that you haven't got simply because it must be multiplied to have value."

Janet said nothing but her face was as set as his own.

"Do you talk about the future? Are you building things together? Do tomorrow count in your marriage? Do you believe that you can make this transient thing last? How?"

"Russell, you don't know me. You said that you knew my courage, my loyalty and my love. You don't really know my love. You don't know that it isn't a fragile emotion, that it is more than my heart. It's my everything and with it goes determination and strength. I forgive you for talking about marriage as you have because I can see where you get your ideas out here. You know that Joel is a matinee idol and that women are crazy about him but you don't know him."

It was then that he kept silent. He had learned to judge men, he believed.

"You don't know what my plans are. You only see that we are childless, that we have no obvious plans for the long term. I've thought of those things but these are Joel's years and he shall have them as he wants them. We have all the years of our life together ahead. My marriage is going to last because I'm going to make it last! I'm going to hold my husband only because he'll want to be held. I am equal to meeting all the circumstances that arise in our marriage and when a circumstance arises that threatens its structure, I shall look the open door if I have to look for it! I shall be honest with you. . . .

"Some day you will marry me," he said evenly.

"You couldn't ever be anything else," he said.

"When I was first married, an older friend told me not to manage my husband. She said that I was to keep my iron hand in a velvet glove. No man has since seen anything except the velvet glove but the hand is iron within. Not to any other person in the world, my husband least of all. I would say what I am saying to you. I am ruthless, strong, capable, Russell, with that hand. I can manage and manipulate and have no one the wiser if it means Joel's happiness and mine. I have no science about using it and a code that will forever keep me from admitting that I ever have."

"How can you be happy?" he asked after a little while. "Is my lot so different from that of other women? What woman lives who loves her husband and is not called upon to mold in some way the things that she wants to hold?"

"I don't know," he said. "I don't know women. I only know that I want you and that I want to offer you everything I think you should have. To me, you are a fragile, lovely woman and as such I want always to have you near me in such a way that you would have no need of this fierce protection of your happiness. If I have said too much, forgive me."

"Of course, I forgive you," she said and was grateful that the lights of the harbor were nearing. "The question will still be there if you ever change your mind, Janet. I'm going east tomorrow but I'm not going out of your life. I will always be there if you ever need me."

"Perhaps I will some day," she said, and little realized that she would.

She tried to forget the things that he said to her that night but they came back one by one bringing anger at his daring, anger that was softened because she knew that he loved her and that she should never have let him.

Joel was asleep when she got in that night and she went to look at him as though he were her baby. He was sleeping with his arm thrown over her pillow. His face in reposeful sleep pointed up the fatuousness that had made it famous on the screen.

She looked at him tenderly in the lump that always rose in her throat when she saw him unguarded in sleep. She remembered that Russell Bede had said he needed her. She was close then to knowing the thing that had bound them together from the beginning, the age old appeal that was greater in her heart than any other.

If only those peaceful, confident emotions and that knowledge could have stayed with her! But there was the business of living a thousand emotions a day, following the ordinary routine of social and professional life.

The autumn and winter wore on and another spring came again after Russell Bede had left, leaving Janet with little nerve ends newly sensitive to the life around her, to the dangers that threatened her and Joel. She had been aware of them before but they had been kept in the back of her mind.

With the passing of those months, she was increasingly aware of the strong pull of studio life and studio associations that were giving her less and less of Joel's time. She was aware of his brief infatuation for his leading lady and his not-so-brief one for another girl who had recently joined the film colony as a writer.

She thought: I know that this will work out all right because the others always have. But—and the word BUT was big in her mind—this can't go on forever. This bridge will widen the distance between us until I will always be conscious of it and then I will be just a habit with Joel.

She was conscious that he no longer cared about art at all. He was satisfied, perfectly satisfied with his life and utter satisfaction was ruinous.

At last she began to cast about to the manipulation, she once had spoken about to Russell Bede, that was quickly fading.

She resolved to get Joel out of Hollywood, and she thought she had found the way when she heard that three of the leading film stars were deserting the screen for a season on the legitimate stage. She knew the weakness in Joel's armor and she proceeded to work on it.

One Way of Obtaining Vaccine for Smallpox

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
"PROBABLY the most important advance of recent years." So said the dean of one of our large medical schools.

No, he was not talking about a new remedy for cancer, or the description of a new disease. He was simply talking about the improvement in the old practice of vaccination.

I was going through the biological department of a large manufacturing firm the other day, and was watching a calf being vaccinated in order to produce vaccine lymph. You probably will not see that if you come here a year from now," said the director with a smile, "because we are using a different kind of animal."

I found that they were using chicken embryos. Before long it is believed that the only kind of vaccine matter used will be produced this way. A long line of incubators greeted me in the laboratory where the new vaccine is made. Eggs about 11 days old were opened at the big end, and there floating right up against the opening was a chicken embryo. Its skin was scarified and the vaccine introduced and the hole in the egg covered with paraffine. A few days later the egg is opened up again when it is found that the chicken has a nice vaccine take. The chick is killed and the lymph from the skin used for making smallpox vaccine. One of the great advantages of the procedure is that it is all done under absolutely sterile conditions.

Interesting Development

It is an interesting development of the recent work on filterable viruses. Jenner, the originator of smallpox vaccination, knew that he could not grow vaccine except by using either cows or human beings. Nor has anybody since ever been able to grow it on cultures; only on living animals. Recently it has been determined that vaccinia is a filterable virus and that filterable viruses grow only upon living tissue culture. A favorite living tissue has been the chick embryo because it is readily available.

The present procedure is a far cry from the early days of vaccination, when they used to soak up the vaccine on linen threads and send it around the world in envelopes.

Incidentally, if the vaccine does not hurt an unborn chick, it should not do any harm to a baby. Parents often fear that the vaccine will harm the six-month-old. But in reality they stand it very well.

fidence placed in them. Their circle of friends is usually large.

Hints on Etiquette

In planning the centerpiece for a dinner table, remember that guests like to see each other across the table, and that tall ornaments which obstruct the view are not desirable.

The only solution is a gymnasium with seating sufficient to handle the enormous crowds that would like to see the games. A gymnasium, located either in Circleville or in the near vicinity, would answer the question. How to get it? how to finance it? and several other questions must be answered. Congratulations should go to the Pickaway county officials in charge of the recent tournament for the splendid manner in which the competition was conducted.

EDUCATOR: I congratulate you on your appointment as master of a new Boy Scout troop to be supported by the Rotary club. Your experience in the Civilian Conservation Corps should prove a great asset in your new work. The Rotary club, always ready to do anything of value for the youth of the community, deserves applause, too, for taking this step.

TO COUNCIL

GENTLEMEN: I wonder how many persons must be injured, and their cars torn up at dangerous street intersections, before you gentlemen wake up to some of the conditions in Circleville and do something to correct them. This week a wreck occurred at Pickaway and Watt streets. There have been accidents there before, and you may expect some more unless you install a traffic light or take some other step. You know also the intersection at Franklin and Pickaway streets is equally as dangerous. Lights would not only protect motorists, but would prevent speeding on some of the streets. This issue is equally

World At A Glance

—By—
Charles P. Stewart

Back in the 1870's there was published monthly in the United States a now-long-since-defunct magazine called the Galaxy.

We were suffering then from a bad depression, the period following the crash of '73, as we have been of late. The Galaxy therefore devoted considerable space to discussion of economic problems. It was highly intellectual in tone, had first-class experts on its staff and evidently weighed the questions of its day in an intelligent fashion — for that era.

Finally, editorially summing up (I quote from an ancient bound copy of the magazine), it drew this conclusion:

"Our difficulty of course, is obvious.

"We are the victims of our own mechanization of industry.

"Mechanization has made such progress and produces so fast that we no longer have employment enough to go around."

MACHINES? IN 1873?

This, remember, was at a time when, expressing ourselves in terms of the 1930's, we would say that nearly everything was done by hand.

A pewee steam engine, known as the Corliss, was exhibited, as a perfect monster, at the Philadelphia centennial exposition, in 1876. We had the telegraph but not the telephone. Primitive electric lights were a curiosity. The scythe and the flail by no means had been supplanted on our farms.

Yet that Galaxy editorial pointed out that we had been mechanized into a depression.

The editorial from which I have quoted could be lifted from the dead-and-gone Galaxy of the 1870's, printed in any newspaper of tomorrow morning, and no one would suspect that it had been written the night before relative to conditions of the present.

ARE WE, TOO, WRONG?

Clearly the Galaxy of the 1870's was cock-eyed.

Some commentator of 1937 or 2000 may refer to 1937's economists as being as cuckoo as the Galaxy's were in the 1870's. Something was and is wrong, to cause depressions. Mechanization as important, if not more so, than some of the other measures you have been considering in council. Protection of the lives of residents and their property should be considered ahead of sewers on some streets that have no water lines and may not have them for some time. I suggest you purchase some lights for some of the dangerous intersections in this city as soon as possible.

CIRCUITEER

TO MAYOR GRAHAM

DEAR SIR: You have been very fair in dealing with persons who have violated the two-hour parking regulation in the downtown district. I believe about all motorists in the county have received their education on the regulation. You should start using the teeth provided by the ordinance. In recent weeks I have noticed many violations, both on overtime parking and double parking. Some residents are beginning to consider the ordinance a joke. A few fines will mean better observance of the regulation.

CIRCUITEER

TO RESIDENTS

FRIENDS: The season to plan your flower and vegetable gardens is at hand. Nothing adds more to the beauty of a city than pretty flowers and shrubbery, attractively planted and well kept. Circleville can boast of many fine trees, adding an unusual touch of beauty. Most residents are to be congratulated for the keen interest they take in the appearance of their yards. Some need a little reminding. Start making your plans early and help dress up Circleville so it will continue to hold the title of being one of the most attractive cities of central Ohio. Orchids to the Garden Club for its progressive program.

WEATHERMAN: Just forget the lamb- lion proposition and continue to do the type of work you turned out during the last week. Residents seem satisfied with the springlike temperature, so Old Man Winter can leave anytime. The weather has been ideal for farmers, who are on the move at the present time. Many housewives have started their annual cleaning.

CIRCUITEER

TO MOTORISTS

DRIVERS: The 1937 auto license plates are now on sale at the McLaughlin shop, S. Scioto street. It is certain if you drive your car during 1937 you will need new plates, so why delay purchasing your tags until the last minute. Buy them as early as possible. This prevents a last minute rush, saves you time and does not work such a hardship on the employees of the deputy registrar's office. Remember, do not put the new tags on your car before March 10. They must be used by April 1.

CIRCUITEER

TO CITY OFFICIALS

GENTLEMEN: The proposition suggested in council Wednesday night that Circleville's streets be repaired under a major WPA project should meet the approval of all residents. It would provide employment to many men on relief rolls. At the present time many of the city's streets are in terrible condition due to sewer improvements. Some should be repaired as soon as possible. I realize it is necessary that the earth be given sufficient time to settle, but surely some have settled enough to start permanent improvements. Residents are continually complaining about the condition of streets, and they expect some action.

CHAPTER 38

RUSSELL BEDE sat at Janet's feet on a deck pillow. His face was turned from her and in the few minutes that followed his asking her to marry him, Janet saw in the firm set of his features, lighted by the moonlight, an expression of steady waiting that she had never seen on his face before.

She saw the man that he was, the man whose willpower, whose brain whose foresight and determination had made a fortune out of a slipping business, the man who was accustomed to getting what he wanted and giving full value in return.

Oh, yes, he would give full value in return. But he had come too late.

"Russell," she said softly. "I am not only married but I am married happily." Still she didn't say that she loved Joel; she thought that he would have known it.

"Some day you will marry me," he said evenly. "Janet, I am no boy to speak impulsively. Nor are you a young girl who would misunderstand. I knew the first night I met you that you were the girl I wanted to marry. In these few weeks I have learned much about you—and your husband."

Janet was going to protest that he could not have known anything about Joel but she kept silent.

"You give and he takes," she said simply. "And he likes taking and that is wrong, my girl. The time will come, as it inevitably does in such a design for living as these people out here practice, when that unbalanced weight will topple. Like and love are the only ones who find and use the qualities that survive."

"But Joel and I are alike," she said and thought she said it aloud but it was only a question, not a statement, in her mind.

"You were a couple of kids who fell in love. Kids who turned out to be diametrically opposite. I am not being impertinent, Janet, in saying this. It's important to me. I know you as well as though I'd known you a lifetime. I know the extent of your courage, your loyalty and your love. And I dare to tell you that you cannot make a success of that thing you have so nobly begun, that you are building a castle on sand. Hollywood marriages do not last. You have the world at your gates, the world that will give more than you can. That world gives things which your husband wants that you haven't got simply because it must be multiplied to have value."

Janet said nothing but her face was as set as his own.

"Do you talk about the future? Are you building things together? Do tomorrow count in your marriage? Do you believe that you can make this transient thing last? How?"

"Russell, you don't know me. You said that you knew my courage, my loyalty and my love. You don't really know my love. You don't know that it isn't a fragile emotion, that it is more than my heart. It's my everything and with it goes determination and strength. I forgive you for talking about marriage as you have because I can see where you get your ideas out. You know that Joel is a matinee idol and that women are crazy about him but you don't know him."

It was then that he kept silent. He had learned to judge men, he believed.

"You don't know what my plans are. You only see that we are children that we have no obvious plans for life-long ties. I've thought of those things but these are Joel's years and he shall have them as he wants them. We have all the years of our life together ahead. My marriage is going to last because I'm going to make it last! I'm going to hold my husband only because he'll want to be held. I am equal to meeting all the circumstances that arise in our marriage and when a circumstance arises that threatens its structure, I shall find the open door if I have to look for it! I shall be honest with you."

"Some day you will marry me," he said evenly.

"You couldn't ever be anything else," he said.

"When I was first married, an older friend told me not to manage my husband. She said that I was to keep my iron hand in a velvet glove. No man has since seen anything except the velvet glove but the hand is iron within. Not to any other person in the world, I would say what I am saying to you. I am ruthless, strong, capable. Russell, with that hand, I can manage and manipulate and have no one the wiser if it means Joel's happiness and mine. I have no conscience about using it and a code that will forever keep me from admitting that I ever have."

"How can you be happy?" he asked after a little while.

"Is my lot so different from that of other women? What woman lives who loves her husband and is not called upon to mold in some way the things that she wants to hold?"

"I don't know," he said. "I don't know women. I only know that I want you and that I want to offer you everything I think you should have. To me, you are a fragile, lovely woman and as such I want always to have you near me in such a way that you would have no need of this fierce protection of your happiness. If I have said too much, forgive me."

"Of course, I forgive you," she said and was grateful that the lights of the harbor were nearing. "The question will still be there if you ever change your mind. Janet, I'm going east tomorrow but I'm not going out of your life. I will always be there if you ever need me."

"Perhaps I will some day," she said, and little realized that she would.

She tried to forget the things that he said to her that night but they came back one by one bringing anger at his daring, anger that she loved her and that she should never have let him.

Joel was asleep when she got in that night and she went to look at him as though he were her baby. He was sleeping with his arm thrown over her pillow. His face

One Way of Obtaining Vaccine for Smallpox

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

"PROBABLY the most important advance of recent years." So said the dean of one of our large medical schools.

No, he was not talking about a new remedy for cancer, or the description of a new disease. He was simply talking about the improvement in the old practice of vaccination.

I was going through the biological department of a large manufacturing firm the other day, and was watching a calf being vaccinated in order to produce vaccine lymph. "You probably will not see that if you come here a year from now," said the director with a smile, "because we are using a different kind of animal."

I found that they were using chicken embryos. Before long it is believed that the only kind of vaccine matter used will be produced this way. A long line of incubators greeted me in the laboratory where the new vaccine is made. Eggs about 11 or 12 days old were opened at the big end, and there floating right up against the opening was a chicken embryo. Its skin

It is an interesting development of the recent work on filterable viruses. Jenner, the originator of smallpox vaccination, knew that he could not grow vaccine except by using either cows or human beings. Nor has anybody since ever been able to grow it on cultures: only on living animals. Recently it has been determined that vaccinia is a filterable virus and that filterable viruses grow only upon living tissue culture. A favorite living tissue has been the chick embryo because it is readily available.

The present procedure is a far cry from the early days of vaccination, when they used to soak up the vaccine on linen threads and send it around the world in envelopes.

Incidentally, if the vaccine does not hurt an unborn chick, it should not do any harm to a baby. Parents often fear that the vaccine will harm the six-month-old. But in reality they stand it very well.

Hints on Etiquette

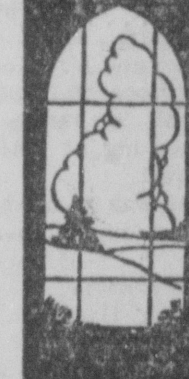

In planning the centerpiece for a dinner table, remember that guests like to see each other across the table, and that tall ornaments which obstruct the view are not desirable.

United Brethren Society Elects Myrtle Trimmer

50 Attend Covered Dish Dinner at Noon Thursday

The Missionary society of the United Brethren church held an all-day meeting in the Community House, Thursday, with the members of the Otterbein Guild as guests of the society.

A covered dish dinner was served at noon, with covers laid for 50. A study class was held in the afternoon conducted by Mrs. Abbie Gusman. Mrs. E. S. Neuding was in charge of the program for the afternoon. Mrs. M. C. Kirkwood reviewed the second chapter of the study book, "Congo Crosses". Several songs were sung by the society, followed by two solos by Mrs. Iley Green.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected at the meeting. Those chosen were Mrs. Myrtle Trimmer, president; Mrs. Ira Valentine, vice-president; Mrs. Barton Lukens, treasurer; Miss Daisy Woolever, secretary of literature; Mrs. Ida Hussey, thank-offering secretary; Mrs. Abbie Gusman, secretary of stewardship. Mrs. Charles Richardson, Mrs. John Stevenson, Mrs. Frank Baker and Mrs. E. B. Klingensmith were chosen collectors. Delegates to the Missionary Convention to be held in Newark in April were appointed, namely, Mrs. Neuding, Mrs. Lukens and Mrs. Hussey. The alternates were Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Kirkwood and Mrs. T. C. Harper. Rev. T. C. Harper closed the session with the benediction.

M. E. Church Day

The various societies of the Methodist Episcopal church held a very successful Church Day, Thursday.

The Woman's Home Missionary society opened the work of the day at 10 o'clock with Mrs. F. E. Barnhill, presiding. After the business meeting, the devotionals were in charge of Mrs. W. T. Ulin, using the theme, "Appreciation of Achievements".

Mrs. Herman Sayre was program leader, the topic being, "Appreciation of Achievements of our Black Brothers and Sisters". Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker told of "The White Side of a Black Subject".

Gifts of the Negro to American culture through song were illustrated by Mrs. J. P. Moffitt, who sang, "Lord, I Want to be a Christian". Gifts through labor, shown in quotations by the society members; folklore, by Mrs. W. T. Ulin, in Uncle Remus stories; humor, by the song, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I See", by Mrs. Moffitt; religion, in the song, "Go Down Moses", by Mrs. Moffitt; gifts, through literature, by Mrs. Sayre; achievements of negroes in cities, showed their gifts to culture, through personality.

A beautiful and impressive Lenten offering service was conducted by Mrs. Sayre, assisted by Mrs. Ora Pontius, Mrs. C. D. Closson, Mrs. Leslie Pontius and Mrs. Fred Nicholas, with Mrs. Moffitt singing, "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee".

At noon, lunch was served in the church dining room, with 40 present.

A short business meeting of the society was called to order at 1 o'clock by Mrs. Harold Grant, vice president. Following this meeting the Women's Foreign home near Whisler, Wednesday afternoon.

The meeting opened with song and scripture reading, followed by prayer, with Mrs. A. M. Forrester in the chair. After the reading of the minutes, the roll was called with 25 members responding. There were three visitors present.

Dues and the free will offering amounted to $2.60, with a small donation for the flower fund. The program committee offered Irish contests and jokes for the afternoon's entertainment. Miss Lois Stauffer gave a reading.

Refreshments of ice cream, cake, mints, tea and coffee were served by the hostesses.

Bexley O. E. S.

Miss Marie L. Hamilton was inspecting officer at the meeting of the Order of the Eastern Star, of the Bexley chapter, Thursday evening.

Among guests attending from Circleville were Mrs. N. G. Hamilton, Miss Bertha Valentine, Mrs. C. D. Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Johnson, Mrs. E. S. Shane and Miss Virginia Marion.

Class Play Planned

The Junior Class of Washington township school will present the play, "Yimmie Yonson's Yob", Friday, March 19th, at the school.

The play has an interesting plot and is full of hilarious comedy.

A short synopsis of the play follows:

Shortly after Mr. Kent accused his son of stealing, the boy disappeared and a curse seemed to be on the Kent household. Later Yimmie, who "ban lookin' for yob," is employed to help with the farming, and there are startling developments as well as numerous funny complications from then on until the mystery is cleared up. This play not only gives opportunity for the Swedish character comedians, but the other parts are excellent. The dramatic element is well balanced by the spontaneous comedy created by the raw Swede, the spunky Irish cook, and the breezy detective.

Others of the cast, an over-severe father, a patient invalid mother, a sweet, unselfish foster daughter, a selfish, scheming niece, a treacherous clerk, an excitable Irish farm hand, and a mischievous soubrette.

The club will meet with Mrs. Bower in two weeks.

Community Club

Miss Marvene Holderman, Pickaway township, entertained the members of the Community club at a covered dish dinner, at her home Thursday evening. Dinner was served at 6:30 followed by an evening at contract. When scores were tallied, high score prize was won by Miss Holderman.

Bridge Dinner

The members of one of Circleville's auction bridge club met in social session, at the Wardell Party Home, Thursday evening. Dinner was served at 6:30. Two tables of auction were in play during the evening. Mrs. George Green and Mrs. Carl D. Beery were high score prize winners. Mrs. Harry Bartholomew will be club hostess in two weeks.

Contract Club

Mrs. R. L. Brehmer entertained the members of her afternoon bridge club, Thursday at her home in N. Court street.

Mrs. C. E. Hunter, Misses Margaret and Martha Crist were guest players. Mrs. Wallace Crist and Mrs. T. O. Gilliland received score prizes, at the conclusion of play. Confections were served during the afternoon.

Mrs. Wallace Crist will entertain the next club meeting.

Pythian Sisters

The Pythian Sisters met in regular session Thursday evening at 7:30 in the lodge room of the Pythian Temple.

Following the business meeting conducted by Mrs. Frank Davis, practice of the degree team was held. A covered dish dinner was served during the social hour.

Mrs. Crites Hostess

Mrs. George Crites entertained her contract club and a few friends at her home in S. Court street, Thursday evening.

At the conclusion of an evening of contract, prizes were presented Mrs. Robert D. Musser and Miss Alice A. May.

Mrs. Crites served a salad course. Guests invited for the evening were Mrs. Joseph Noecker, Miss May, Mrs. Robert Smith, Miss Martha Leist, Mrs. Larry Atthey of Circleville, and Mrs. Stoddard Raper of Columbus.

Farewell Party

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ekins, of Northridge Road, entertained at a farewell party, recently, complimenting Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hunsicker, of Montclair avenue, who will leave for their new home in Jacksonville, Fla., the last of March. An evening of bridge followed by a buffet supper was enjoyed by twelve friends. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Allen, of Columbus, were out-of-town guests.

Bridge Luncheon

Mrs. Robert H. Terhune entertained her contract club at a bridge luncheon, Thursday, at her home in N. Court street. Mrs. W. A. Thomas was a guest.

After the luncheon served at 1:30, the afternoon was passed at the card tables. Mrs. E. E. Reger and Mrs. Luther Bower were presented score trophies.

The club will meet with Mrs. Bower in two weeks.

Elbenzer Social Circle

The Elbenzer Social Circle will meet at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Liston, Circleville township, Wednesday afternoon, March 10, at 2 o'clock. Mrs. Orin Dreisbach and Mrs. E. O. Crites will be assisting hostesses.

Personals

Mrs. Bryan Custer and Mrs. W. A. Thomas spent Friday in Columbus with their sister, Mrs. Ralph Van Atta.

Fred Grant, Ohio university, will spend the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Grant, N. Court street.

Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Smith Jr. have returned to their home in S. Court street after a two weeks' visit in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Gilbert Crawford, of Darbyville, was a Circleville business visitor, Thursday.

Mrs. Lafe Lammann of Jackson township shopped in Circleville, Wednesday.

H. L. Trick has returned to his home in E. Main street after a visit in St. Louis.

Mrs. Hudson Jefferys and daughter, of Ironton, came Friday for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph S. Smith, of Sunny Side.

Mrs. G. H. Adkins, of E. Main street, spent Wednesday with Mrs. Ora Rader, Jackson township. Miss Lillian Rader, of West Virginia, is a house guest at the Rader home.

Mrs. A. L. Franz, of Pomeroy, is visiting Mrs. Elizabeth Willis, S. Court street.

Mrs. Harry Birkhead, of Orient, and Mrs. Roy Williams, of Commercial Point, were Circleville visitors, Thursday.

Missionary society convened at 1:30 o'clock. A prayer circle was formed as the opening number of the service followed by singing one verse of "All Hail the Power of Jesus' Name". Minutes of the last two meetings were read and approved. Two new members were received in the society. They were H. L. Trick and Mrs. Earl Hilyard. The mite boxes were opened at this meeting. The Stewardship lesson was based on Founders' Day, the society having been organized in March 1869.

Devotionals were in charge of Mrs. M. T. Johnson, who used the topic "The Way—Jesus" Miss Letha Beavers offered a history of the society's magazine, The Woman's Missionary Friend. This was followed by a solo by Cora Camp. A short period was devoted to Mystery Box questions.

The last number on the program was a playlet, "African Christians" with the following cast of characters, Miss Wise, missionary, Letha Beavers; Waluki, Mrs. M. T. Johnson; little blind girl, Marilyn Blair; Bedi, a young mother, Cora Camp; Bombo, wife of Native pastor, Mrs. E. R. Austin; Sudila, a widow Mildred Lenon.

This concluded the work of the societies for the day, as the Zelda Guild did not hold a session.

United Brethren Society Elects Myrtle Trimmer

50 Attend Covered Dish Dinner at Noon Thursday

The Missionary society of the United Brethren church held an all-day meeting in the Community House, Thursday, with the members of the Otterbein Guild as guests of the society.

A covered dish dinner was served at noon, with covers laid for 50. A study class was held in the afternoon conducted by Mrs. Abbie Gusman. Mrs. E. S. Neuding was in charge of the program for the afternoon. Mrs. M. C. Kirkwood reviewed the second chapter of the study book, "Congo Crosses". Several songs were sung by the society, followed by two solos by Mrs. Iley Green.

Officers for the ensuing year were elected at the meeting. Those chosen were Mrs. Myrtle Trimmer, president; Mrs. Ira Valentine, vice-president; Mrs. Harold Conrad, secretary; Mrs. Barton Lukens, treasurer; Miss Daisy Woolver, secretary of literature; Mrs. Ida Hussey, thank-offering secretary; Mrs. Abbie Gusman, secretary of stewardship. Mrs. Charles Richardson, Mrs. John Stevenson, Mrs. Frank Baker and Mrs. E. B. Klingensmith were chosen collectors. Delegates to the Missionary Convention to be held in Newark in April were appointed, namely, Mrs. Neuding, Mrs. Lukens and Mrs. Hussey. The alternates were Mrs. Richardson, Mrs. Kirkwood and Mrs. T. C. Harper.

Rev. T. C. Harper closed the session with the benediction.

M. E. Church Day
The various societies of the Methodist Episcopal church held a very successful Church Day, Thursday.

The Woman's Home Missionary society opened the work of the day at 10 o'clock with Mrs. F. E. Barnhill, presiding. After the business meeting, the devotionals were in charge of Mrs. W. T. Uim, using the theme, "Appreciation of Achievements".

Mrs. Herman Sayre was program leader, the topic being, "Appreciation of Achievements of our Black Brothers and Sisters". Mrs. C. K. Hunsicker told of "The White Side of a Black Subject".

Gifts of the Negro to American culture through song were illustrated by Mrs. J. P. Moffitt, who sang, "Lord, I Want to be a Christian". Gifts through labor, shown in quotations by the society members; Folklore, by Mrs. W. T. Uim, in Uncle Remus stories; humor, by the song, "Nobody Knows the Trouble I See", by Mrs. Moffitt; religion, in the song, "Go Down Moses", by Mrs. Moffitt; gifts, through literature, by Mrs. Sayre; achievements of negroes in cities, showed their gifts to culture, through personality.

A beautiful and impressive Lenten offering service was conducted by Mrs. Sayre, assisted by Mrs. Ora Pontius, Mrs. C. D. Closson, Mrs. Leslie Pontius and Mrs. Fred Nicholas, with Mrs. Moffitt singing, "O Master Let Me Walk With Thee."

At noon, lunch was served in the church dining room, with 40 present.

A short business meeting of the society was called to order at 1 o'clock by Mrs. Harold Grant, vice president. Following this meeting the Women's Foreign

Class Play Planned
The Junior Class of Washington township school will present the play, "Yimmie Yonson's Yob", Friday, March 19th, at the school.

The play has an interesting plot and is full of hilarious comedy. A short synopsis of the play follows: Shortly after Mr. Kent accused his son of stealing, the boy disappeared and a curse seemed to be on the Kent household. Later Yimmie, who "ban lookin' for yob," is employed to help with the farming, and there are startling developments as well as numerous funny complications from then on until the mystery is cleared up. This play not only gives opportunity for the Swedish character comedians, but the other parts are excellent. The dramatic element is well balanced by the spontaneous comedy created by the raw Swede, the spunky Irish cook, and the breezy detective.

Others of the cast, an over-severe father, a patient invalid mother, a sweet, unselfish foster daughter, a selfish, scheming niece, a treacherous clerk, an excitable Irish farm hand, and a mischievous soubrette.

PICKAWAY WINS, NEW HOLLAND ASHVILLE LOSE IN FIRST TOURNEY TILTS

RATES MEET OSTRANDER FIVE SATURDAY AT 1

Miller and Anderson Divide Scoring Honors in 35-34 Contest on Thursday

BERN UNION, SPARTA WIN

Arlington Turns Back Big, Fast Marysville Crew

Pickaway township cagers, county titlists, won the first game of their competition in the central district class B tournament at Westerville Friday afternoon, while New Holland, No. 2 team, and Ashville, consolation winner, were eliminated.

Scores were: Pickaway 35, Watkins 34. Berne Union 29, New Holland 14.

Sparta 30, Ashville 17. Pickaway took a long early lead over the Morrow county outfit, going ahead 24-13 at the half, but the Watkins team started dropping long shots through the hoop. Personal fouls slowed down the Pickaway team, too, with Don Miller going out.

Two Divide Honors Miller, who plays center, and Creighton Anderson at forward tallied 24 of the Pickaway points. Each hit the hoop for 12 counters on five buckets and two free throws.

Liggett, Watkins forward, was high for the game with 13 tallies. Pickaway takes on the powerful Ostrander team in its next game, scheduled for 1 p. m. Saturday. Ostrander won handily from Milford Center, 41-18.

New Holland played its usual valiant game but was unable to stop Berne Union's well-balanced attack. The Fairfield county boys led 14-6 at the half. Walter Gregg was the only Ashville Bronco able to break through the Sparta defense, so his team lost its opener. Gregg hit the hoop for four goals.

Marysville, winner of the Central Buckeye league title, lost its first game to Upper Arlington, 19-28.

CAGERS VICTORS AND LOSERS IN SIT-DOWN STRIKE

FLORA, Ind., March 5—(UP)—Delphi high school players went on a 28-minute sit-down strike on the basketball floor last night and won—and lost.

They demanded re-play of the last 20 seconds of their game with Flora in the sectional basketball tournament, claiming the time-keeper forgot to stop his watch while they were making substitutions. They sat on the floor, halted the tournament until officials agreed.

Flora won anyway, by the same score as before, 19 to 18.

Another Di Maggio

SIGNED by the San Francisco Seals, 18-year-old Dominic Di Maggio is starting on the baseball trail that led his brother Joe to a job last year with the world champion Yankees. Dominic, pictured above, is a shortstop and wears glasses. A third brother, Vince, is signed for a tryout with the Boston Bees this year.

MAX SCHMELING THROUGH NATION CANCELS TOUR

NEW YORK, March 5—(UP)—Max Schmeling postponed his exhibition tour today while Madison Square Garden's legal staff prepared court action to forestall Jimmy Braddock risking his title against Joe Louis in Chicago June 21.

Schmeling's manager, Joe Jacobs, denied that anti-Nazi boycott threats had caused the German challenger to abandon his scheduled swing through 22 cities this spring. He said that Max's presence in New York was necessary for the anticipated court battle.

Garden attorneys said that action would be based on a federal court injunction seeking to restrain Braddock from "anticipatory breach of contract" to defend his title against Schmeling under Garden promotion June 3.

Schmeling's tour was first scheduled to start March 1, then postponed until March 7. Jacobs said they planned to begin traveling as soon as legal action gets under way.

MUSKIES COVER FRASCELLA, WIN OHIO CAGE TITLE

New Concord Guard Limits Wooster Ace to Six Points in Game

CROWN IS CONTESTED

Record Best Scored Since 1927 by Muskingum

COLUMBUS, March 5.—(UP)—The greatest Muskingum college basketball team to sport the colors of the New Concord school in 10 years today held the undisputed Ohio conference championship.

Muskingum won the title and succeeded Marietta as the ruler of the vast conference, last night when it defeated Wooster 37 to 30. The triumph was the 14th in 15th league starts for the Muskies. Their only defeat in league ranks was a 36 to 30 setback at the hands of Case, which finished in second place with eight victories and one loss.

By virtue of the victory Coach Stuart Holcomb's combine hung up the finest record any Muskingum team has compiled since 1927. In that year a Muskie quintet finished a second straight defeat without a loss within conference ranks.

Muskingum won last night primarily because it accomplished what collegiate rivals have endeavored for two seasons to do, namely throttle the high scoring efforts of Nick Frascella, Wooster's great forward.

Forrest Rupp, Muskie veteran, was given the assignment of guarding Frascella and he did a superb job. Frascella was limited to one field goal and four fouls. Only one other occasion had the Wooster ace been held to a smaller total. That was against Rider of Trenton, N. J. in the second game of the present season when he garnered only two points. In that contest Frascella was banished on fouls after only 12 minutes of play.

MIAMI SCHOOL PAPER ATTACKS COURT RECORDS

OXFORD, March 5.—(UP)—Completion of a disastrous basketball campaign by Miami today provoked "The Student," campus newspaper, "to look inquiringly at the status of varsity basketball here."

In an editorial "The Student" said: "While winning games is not the all-important thing it would be refreshing to see a Miami basketball team win over half its games. Worse however, is that the teams invariably play a helter-skelter, rough-and-tumble brand of basketball that does no credit to the University and can probably be called basketball only through a considerable stretch of the imagination."

Reasons for poor teams, the editorial said, had been attributed to hard luck, the failure of the school to draw good material and the possibility that all available talent was not seeking varsity berths.

Bowling News

Gasco bowlers won two out of three games from the Circleville Oils, Thursday, in an Industrial league match on the C.A.C. alleys. The fuel boys knocked over 2,637 pins with Smith, Merriman and Marion leading the parade. McGran and M. Gordon were high for the losers.

DICKEY GETS $17,500

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 5.—(UP)—Catcher Bill Dickey's holdout demands were settled today with the New York Yankees for $17,500, an increase of $3,000 over his 1936 salary. Dickey asked for $25,000, but in a conference lasting less than 10 minutes last night with Manager Joe McCarthy, the star receiver "compromised" at the lower figure. Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, who ended his holdout siege Wednesday reports for training today.

About This And That In Many Sports

Blow to C.B.L.

Defeat of Marysville in the first round of the district class B tournament does not speak so well for the Central Buckeye league—Marysville went through all teams in the loop twice without defeat, then dropped its first post-season fray to Upper Arlington—The Polar Bears, incidentally, may replace Marysville in the C.B.L.—London will not accept a bid from league officials, it is certain. ***

Eyes on Pickaway

Eyes of Pickaway county fans are on the Pirates from Pickaway township—Carl Burger's boys played inspired ball to win the tournament, and now they are engaging in contests with teams that boast excellent records for the season's and tournament play—If Burger's team can get past the Ostrander barrier it has a chance to go even farther. ***

Travel to Delaware

Circleville high school cagers go to Delaware tonight hoping to upset the apple cart of the Marion Harding crew—Most sports writers are favoring Newark to sweep through the tourney again. ***

Pounds for Baer

Max Baer will be in England when April's there, but not to hear "the chaffinch singing on the orchard bough"—Mister Baer will be there to fight Walter Neusel for a pile of pounds—and if he gets past Neusel, a task in which he should meet with not too much trouble, the former champion will be signed for a bout during coronation week in May—Baer is in the mood now for a bit of fighting—He has hands again to hit with, and I'll not be surprised if someone besides King George gets crowned for the benefit of the British fancy—Bob Pastor may be the man, depending on the Baer-Pastor arrangements in the United States set for March 19—though there is a rule in England against a bout between two foreigners, the boxing board of England may waive it if convinced that any match would result in an interesting fight—This is coronation year, and sports are on the boom in Britain—there is a festive holiday spirit, and prizes in all branches of sports are being increased—boxing is catching on, according to Brig. Gen. A. C. Critchley, the modern Tex Rickard of London, who is here to sign up likely matches—The general, who will be remembered as an able golfer competing in several tournaments in America in the last ten years, is a millionaire sportsman, and he speaks in the kind of figures that stir interest in the local cauliflower market.

double finesse. Had he taken the Q finesse West would have won with the K, then his 10 and his partner's J both would have dominated declarer's 9 and cost 60 clearer another club trick. Now West faced leading up to the A-Q of clubs, or A-10 of spades, either of which return leads meant giving South two tricks in the suit West chose to return. West dared not lead back a heart. Had he tried that he would have done so to declarer's advantage, enabling him to win four tricks in the suit, by letting the lead run around to his J, then finessing to the suit broke. West could not have enabled declarer to fulfill his contract, as defenders already had won a trick in spades, two in diamonds and one in clubs, defeating the contract a trick.

Bidding went: South, 1-Spade; North, 2-Diamonds; South, 3-Clubs; North, 3-Hearts; South, 3-No Trumps; North, 4-No Trumps, which South reluctantly passed.

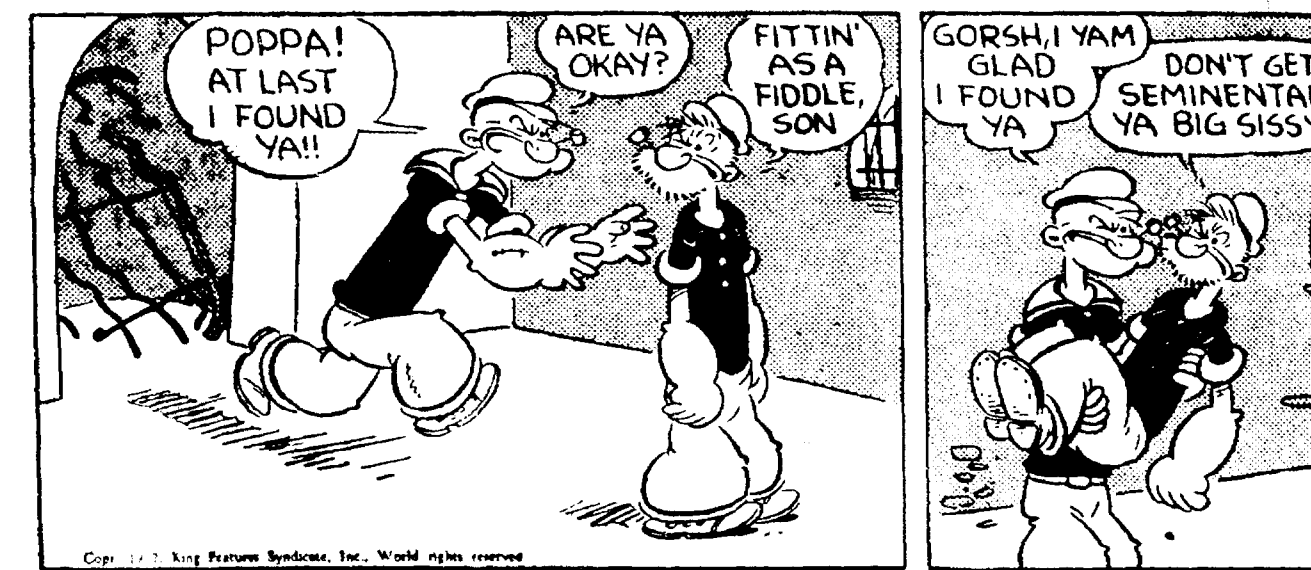

West was hard put for an opening lead to his liking. Finally he led the Q of spades and was allowed to hold the trick. He shifted to his top diamond. Dummy played the 10, East's J won. The 5 of spades was returned. Declarer's K took the trick. The 8 of diamonds was led and allowed to run. East's Q won. The 6 of clubs was led back. Declarer played his 9 and lost to West's 10. It was well for declarer that he had taken the Finally West decided to lead back the club suit. That gave declarer the eight remaining tricks: One in spades, two in hearts, three in diamonds and two in clubs.

It is probable that had North, instead of South, played the deal at no trumps, that defenders would have won the same number of tricks, four as South lost.

double finesse. Had he taken the Q finesse West would have won with the K, then his 10 and his partner's J both would have dominated declarer's 9 and cost him a trick. Now West faced leading up to the A-Q of clubs, or A-10 of spades, either of which return leads meant giving South two tricks in the suit West chose to return. West dared not lead back a heart. Had he tried that he would have done so to declarer's advantage, enabling him to win four tricks in the suit, by letting the lead run around to his J, then finding that the suit broke. That would not have enabled declarer to fulfill his contract, as defenders already had won a trick in spades, two in diamonds and one in clubs, defeating the contract a trick.

Finally West decided to lead back the club suit. That gave declarer the eight remaining tricks: One in spades, two in hearts, three in diamonds and two in clubs.

It is probable that had North, instead of South, played the deal at no trumps, that defenders would have won the same number of tricks, four, as South lost.

American Bridge League Awards Increased

Players who thought the American Bridge League was substituting Masters Points for trophies were in error. The Masters Points are an additional reward for winners. The League is giving more and better prizes than ever before.

Mainly About People

ONE MINUTE PULPIT
And the loftiness of man shall be bowed down, and the haughtiness of men shall be made low.
—Isaiah 2:17.

Harry Montelius, Route 1, county manager of the rural electrification project, is ill with a severe cold.

Eight claims were filed by Pickaway county workers during February with the Ohio Industrial Commission. None of the claims was for a fatality, one caused permanent partial disability, and four others over seven days' loss of time.

Mrs. Harry Timmons received a letter, Friday morning, from Mr. Timmons, who is a patient in the Veterans Hospital in Dayton, O., saying that his condition is much improved.

The Washington township Parent-Teachers' association will meet Monday at 7:30 p. m. in the school to see flood pictures and hear Walter Richard and Boyd Stout relate their experiences in the flood area.

The mission band of Trinity Lutheran church will meet Saturday at 2 p. m. at the parish house.

Mrs. Roy Huffer, suffering from a fractured pelvis after an automobile accident, was removed from Berger hospital to her home in N. Pickaway street Friday.

George Tester, tenant, of Arthur Dunlap, Williamsport, was taken from Berger hospital to his home, Thursday evening. Mr. Tester suffered head injuries when kicked by a mule.

Miss Charlotte Peters returned from Columbus, Friday noon, after remaining over night with her mother, Mrs. Ralph Peters, of Jackson township, who underwent a major operation, at Grant Hospital, Friday morning. Mrs. Peters' condition is reported satisfactory.

STATE'S REDMEN GATHER APRIL 3 IN CHILLICOTHE

Members of the local tribe of Redmen will participate in the state-wide meeting to be held in the Chillicothe armory, Saturday, April 3, when a class of about 125 candidates will be initiated. About 2,000 persons are expected at the meeting.

National and state officers will be present for the meeting. Members of the Deerfoot tribe of Columbus will confer the initiatory work.

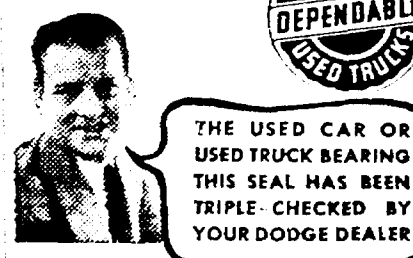

Concurrent with the meeting of the Redmen, the Daughters of Pocahontas will entertain a state meeting in the Eastern Star hall in Chillicothe.

WILLIAM METZGER DIES

Services were held Friday afternoon at the Woodyard chapel in Columbus for William Metzger, 79, of Lockbourne, who died Wednesday. Surviving are the widow, Mary; two sons, C. E. and A. D. Metzger, one daughter, Mrs. John Rutherford, 13 grandchildren and 22 great-grandchildren.

SPEECH SCORES HIGH TRIBUNAL FOR DECISIONS

fluence the public or congress in regard to any legislation.

It was learned that the resolution had been drawn up some time ago in an effort to stop what its author described as "this vast administration propaganda machine."

The opposition coalition also discussed efforts of the administration to line up the support of farmers and labor. It was suggested that the activities of Major George L. Berry's organization, labor's Non-Partisan League, should be discussed in the senate debate.

Cabinet to Join Fight

On the administrative side, it was said authoritatively that several cabinet officers would soon speak publicly in support of the judiciary plan.

Mr. Roosevelt indicated last night that he intended to keep congress in session until every resource to achieve his objective had been exhausted.

Administration leaders in congress hailed his speech as one of the most effective of his career. Senate Majority Leader Joseph T. Robinson said it would lend support to the judiciary program campaign both in congress and in the nation.

Opponents of the bill contended that the president failed to meet their arguments that he was "packing" the Supreme Court and said it would not influence the senate opposition.

"I feel that the president's speech was full of errors and that the president laid up to the Supreme Court such events as dust storms and floods," said Sen. Burton K. Wheeler, D., Mont., one of the leading foes of the program.

Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg, R., Mich.; Sen. Edward R. Burke, D., Neb., and Sen. Frederick Van Nuys, D., Ind., all prominent opponents, said they did not listen to the speech.

The president's address was the opening salvo of administration heavy artillery. He stood in a glare of hot floodlights beating down on cabinet officers, congressional leaders and distinguished guests at the $100-a-plate Democratic "victory" dinner which set the pace for 1,253 such celebrations throughout the nation.

The dinners raised around $400,000 to help clear up the party deficit of slightly more than that amount.

Mr. Roosevelt declaring definitely that his "ambition" is to retire in 1941 with the foundations of greater national progress started, told the party that it would "remain the majority party so long as it continues to justify the faith of millions who had almost lost faith—so long and no longer."

Continue on Course

He declared that "if I have taught to say" the party would continue on its course and "solve those problems" perplexing this generation. And he pointed to "this new road" which had greeted his supreme court proposals as "the best evidence in the world" that the administration had begun to keep its promises.

The president recalled that 40 years of controversy preceded the emancipation of slaves in the United States, but he asserted that "economic freedom for the wage earner and the farmer and the small business man will not wait for 40 years. It will not wait at all."

The theme of his speech was the Supreme Court controversy. He built a background which he said made his proposed judiciary bill essential but he postponed until next Tuesday's speech his direct discussion of the measure.

Once he said that "the unthinkable, or those who dwell in the past, have tried to block" the demands upon the government "that human needs be met."

Again he referred to the government as a "three horse team" the executive, the congress and the judiciary — and said that team could never plough a field if "one horse lies down in the traces or plunges off in another direction."

Mr. Roosevelt referred to the fall of royalist, parliamentary and other types of governments when they failed to meet the demands of "human needs" and recalled that people in other lands had "become so fed up with futile debate" that they were willing to surrender democracy to "get things done."

But, he said, "in the United States democracy has not yet failed and . . . we propose not to let it fail."

DENTIST FACES MURDER CHARGE IN GIRL'S DEATH

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va.,

March 5—(UP)—A case of first degree murder against Dr. R. G. Miller, charged with the chloroform killing of pretty Cleo Sprouse, 18, was prepared by the state today for submission to a grand jury next week.

Commonwealth's Attorney W. O. Fife summoned to his office a dozen witnesses whom he will call before the body in seeking indictment of the 53-year-old dentist, father of two children and long-time friend of the Sprouse family.

An early trial appeared probable. Dr. Miller said he would not oppose the state's move to speed the case.

Miller, who confessed that he killed the popular high school honor student with an overdose of chloroform during an illegal operation, was held at Richmond, 60 miles away. He was taken there after citizens in this quiet college town became aroused.

Emil Cromley, Native of County, Dies of Pneumonia

Emil C. Cromley, native of Madison township, died Wednesday at 7 p. m. in the state hospital in Gallipolis, pneumonia causing death. Mr. Cromley was a son of George and Christina Noecker, his mother being a sister of the late J. R. Noecker.

A brother, Earl; four sisters, Mrs. Georgia Stein, Mrs. Catherine Fredlinghaus, and Mrs. Pauline Costlow, all of Columbus, and Mrs. Louise Fisher, Walnut township, survive.

The funeral was Friday afternoon in St. Paul's church, the Rev. E. H. E. Winterhoff officiating. Burial was in Reber Hill cemetery by E. F. Schlegel.

DENTIST FACES MURDER CHARGE IN GIRL'S DEATH

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., March 5—(UP)—A case of first degree murder against Dr. R. G. Miller, charged with the chloroform killing of pretty Cleo Sprouse, 18, was prepared by the state today for submission to a grand jury next week.

Commonwealth's Attorney W. O. Fife summoned to his office a dozen witnesses whom he will call before the body in seeking indictment of the 53-year-old dentist, father of two children and long-time friend of the Sprouse family.

An early trial appeared probable. Dr. Miller said he would not oppose the state's move to speed the case.

Miller, who confessed that he killed the popular high school honor student with an overdose of chloroform during an illegal operation, was held at Richmond, 60 miles away. He was taken there after citizens in this quiet college town became aroused.

The Ohio river and the dust bowl are not conversant with the habits of the interstate commerce clause. But we shall never be safe in our lives, in our property or in the heritage of our soil until we have somehow made the interstate commerce clause conversant with the habits of the Ohio river and the dust bowl.

If we would keep faith with those who had faith in us, if we would make Democracy succeed, I SAY WE MUST ACT NOW!

Accept Our Thanks

We wish to extend a warm thanks to all our friends who helped make the opening of our building the big success it was. We are appreciative of the flowers sent to us by firms and individuals of this section, and of the fine co-operation of the Jonas band and all others who aided in making the dance a delightful affair.

Again, we say, "Thanks to everyone!"
